FIRE DOES MILLION DOLLAR DAMAGE ON GALVESTON PIERS

Originating in Sulphur Bins, it Spreads Along Water Front; Finally Controlled.

ITALIAN STEAMER BURNS

Wagons of Wheat Is Consumed, Other Vessels Are Removed to Safety; Gale Makes Firemen's Work Difficult and Carries Flames to Bales of Cotton.

By Associated Press.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 30.—Fire starting in sulphur bins on the Galveston docks this morning spread rapidly along the water front, destroying [illegible] part of the plant of the [illegible] company and [illegible], doing damage estimated at considerably more than $100,000.

The fire on the docks was finally brought under control, but the Italian steamship [illegible] and its cargo of wheat, to which the fire continued to spread, continued to burn.

Several steamers in the vicinity of the fire were removed to safety before the flames reached them. Thousands of bales of cotton were destroyed.

All the fire fighting apparatus of the city responded to alarm. A wind blowing 30 miles an hour made the firemen's work difficult.

Forty eight cars on [illegible] the sulphur [illegible] were destroyed. It was also the plant of the Anchor [illegible] company [illegible] cotton seed standing on [illegible].

Some estimates were that the loss would exceed $2,000,000.

WILHELM RETZEL WEDS CRAFTON GIRL

Announcement was made today of the marriage Tuesday evening, September 28 in the Lutheran church at Crafton, of Miss Ethyl May Rough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Rough of Crafton, to Philip Wilhelm Retzel, son of Mrs. Margaret Retzel of Race street, Connellsville, and well-known business man of Rochester, Pa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Ellis B. Burgess of Pittsburg, president of the Pittsburg synod of the Lutheran church. The wedding was quiet, only immediate relatives witnessing it. Mr. and Mrs. Retzel are now on their honeymoon in the East. They are expected to arrive in Connellsville Monday and will be guests for several days of the bridegroom's mother and other relatives. The bride is a popular young woman of her community and is known in Connellsville, having visited here some time ago. Mr. Retzel conducts the Retzel pharmacy at Rochester. He formerly was engaged in business in Connellsville, being identified with Markell's drug store. He was graduated from the Connellsville high school and the department of pharmacy of the University of Pittsburg completing his course in the latter institution in 1904. Mr. and Mrs. Retzel will be at home at Rochester after October 15.

Birthday Party.

A very delightful party was held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Ida Mae DeTemple in Murphy avenue in honor of her 16th birthday anniversary. The evening was enjoyably spent in dancing and various games. At a late hour a dainty luncheon was served on the lawn which was brilliantly illuminated with Japanese lanterns. Among those present were: Misses Naomi Powell, Evangelist Adams, Kathryn Fealy, Marie Comstock, Idythe Phillips, Kathryn DeTemple, Ethel Addis, Mildred Clair, Opal Franks, Helen Comer, Frances Bitner, Elizabeth Poiser, Emma Rusnack, Mabel Stillwagon, Blanche Ryan, Kathryn Harper and Ida Mae DeTemple, Raymond Sikinger, William Powell, George Edwards, William Ernesty, Walter Rusnack, Clifford Crowe, Charles DeTemple, George Zimmn, Walter Buttermore, Calvin McNutt and John DeTemple, all of Connellsville; John Byrne, James Gordon, Donald Stoner, Frank Byrne and Thomas Stoner, all of Scottdale, and Fred Akens, of Tennessee.

Navoney-Kearns.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Navoney of Scottdale announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ernestine Lucile, to Carl Kearns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kearns of Fallston, Pa., solemnized at 10 o'clock in the morning of September 28 in St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, Beaver Falls, by Rev. Godfrey Pfeil. The bride's sister, Miss Emma Navoney, was bridesmaid and Guy Claire, the bridegroom's cousin, best man. Covers were laid for fifty at the wedding breakfast. A large bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley formed the centerpiece. The favors were small baskets containing candy hearts. Following a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Kearns will be at home at Fallston.

Miss Cox Engaged.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Dorothy Cox, daughter of Frank Cox of Denver, Col., formerly of Connellsville and Pittsburg, and Dr. John Louis Hesse of Eugene, Ore. The engagement will terminate in a late fall wedding.

JOHN J. McCARTHY HAD ACTIVE CAREER IN COKE INDUSTRY

South Connellsville Man Worked Up From Hand at Summit to General Manager.

The funeral of John J. McCarthy will be held Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock from the family residence in Hyndman street, South Connellsville, with requiem high mass at 9 o'clock at the Immaculate Conception church.

The deceased was born at Greensburg, December 10, 1856, a son of Henry and Mary Macneil McCarthy. When he was quite young he moved with his parents to Jacobs Creek where he was employed on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. At the age of 16 years he located at Summit station and was employed at the coke plant owned by James Cochran. He soon became a foreman and for thirty years was employed in a supervising capacity. When the [illegible] field was discovered Mr. McCarthy was employed to supervise the construction of the Hostetter and Whitney plants, and was the first superintendent of the former plant. He left the service of the company to become [illegible] manager for the Washington Coal & Coke company, remaining in the service of the company until the [illegible], when he became superintendent of the [illegible] plant of the Pittsburg Coal company. About nine years ago he was made general manager of the [illegible] Coal company's plants at Adrian and [illegible], W. Va. On account of ill health he retired from active duties.

Mr. McCarthy is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Quinn McCarthy, and the following children: Edward at home; Mrs. [illegible], New Salem; Mrs. Charles [illegible]; Mrs. Albert [illegible], Mrs. William O'Brien and Mrs. Homer Jones, South Connellsville; Mrs. John Hay, Connellsville; Mr. Theodore [illegible]; Mrs. E. A. [illegible]; Mrs. Joseph Patton, Morgantown, W. Va.; [illegible] Rose [illegible], and Mrs. Anna Winterhalter, [illegible]; one brother, Charles McCarthy, Carmichaels, and a granddaughter, Miss Marguerite Lynn, at home. [illegible] Mrs. John A. Trimble of South Arch street is an aunt of the deceased.

Mr. McCarthy was one of the first communicants of the Immaculate Conception church and was the organizer of the choral club and orchestra. He was also a member of the Knights of Columbus.

FREIGHT HOUSE WILL BE ERECTED BY WEST PENN IN UNIONTOWN

Site at Old Power House Chosen as Site; Plans Approved and Work Is to Be Started Soon.

Plans have been approved for the erection by the West Penn Railways company of a brick freight station on North [illegible] avenue, Uniontown, and construction is expected to start in a short time. The building will be on the site of the old Uniontown power house which has been razed and the ground cleared for the new construction. It will be one story in height, with a platform on two sides. The present siding on Beeson avenue will be changed so as to bring the tracks alongside the station.

West Penn officials report that the freight and express service inaugurated in the coke region [illegible] July is steadily growing in popularity. Business has shown a healthy increase and with contemplated improvements in effect shipments are expected to be far greater.

A terminal in Uniontown, for the storage of shipments in transit, became a necessity as business increased. Freight stations in other towns are possibilities of the future.

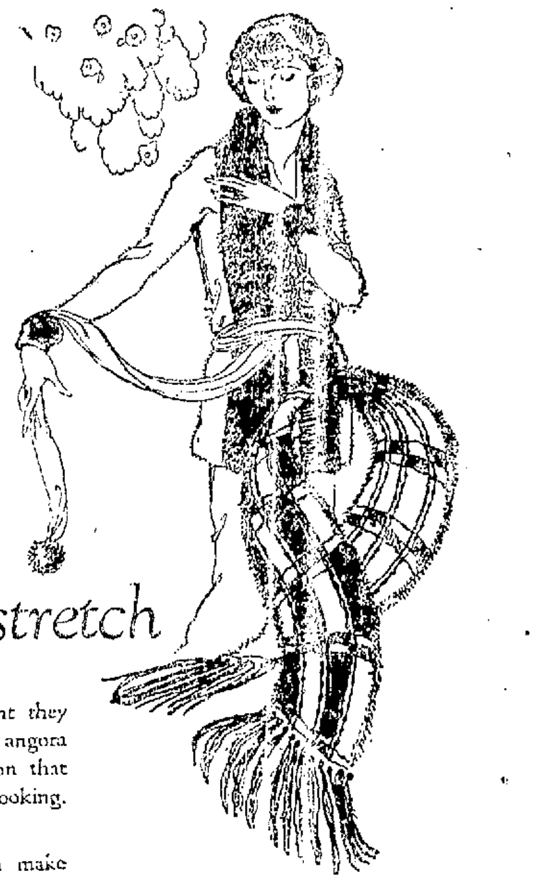

About Influenza.

Influenza is a germ disease and you are much more likely to contract it when you have a cold. Many people believe that influenza starts with a cold; the fact is the cold simply prepares the system for the reception and incubation of the influenza germ. If you would avoid influenza, avoid colds and when you contract a cold take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy until you have fully recovered from it. If you do this you are much less likely to take the influenza. Adv.

Don't let your sweaters shrink or stretch

YOU can wash your sweaters yourself so that they look like new! The expensive sweater with angora collar and cuffs! The dear little sleeveless slip-on that you knit yourself! Keep them fluffy and new-looking. Wash them in soft Lux suds.

Rubbing soap on woolens and twisting them make them thicken and shrink. Your good-looking sweater suddenly grows far too large and stringy—or ridiculously tight and harsh! But there is no rubbing with Lux. Souse the rich foamy lather gently through and through. Your sweater comes out soft and shapely—the way you bought it.

Your grocer, druggist or department store has Lux.—Lever Brothers Co., Cambridge, Mass.

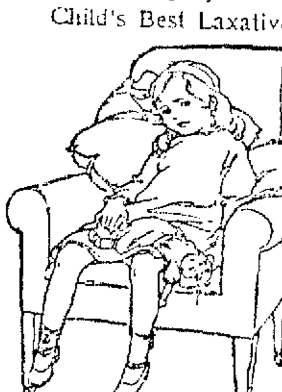

There's nothing like Lux for keeping sweaters new

To wash your sweater
Whisk Lux into a rich lather in very hot water—two tablespoonfuls to the gallon. Add cold water till the suds are lukewarm. Swish your sweater about in the suds. Wash quickly, pressing the suds through and through. Do not rub. Rinse three times in lukewarm water, dissolving a little Lux in the last water (do not make a lather). This leaves your sweater softer and woollier. Never wring a sweater. Squeeze out the water and spread on a towel to dry in the shade.

SHALL THE LIBRARY BE CLOSED?

To a parent of children in the high school, a the relative or friend of a young man who is using the facilities of the Carnegie Library as a means of self-instruction in the vocation he has chosen as his life's work, do you want the doors of this institution to be closed?

That is a question the people of Connellsville have to answer in one of two ways. "No," through responding to the appeal of the trustees to help provide a fund to meet the situation arising from an empty treasury and no resources available upon which to replenish it, or "Yes" by refusing to do anything to aid in the present dire emergency by which the Library is confronted.

It is unnecessary at this time to remind any intelligent, community spirited citizen of Connellsville of the usefulness and value of the Library as an auxiliary to the public schools, or as an institution for the use and benefit of the people as a whole. Its worth in these particulars has been proven through each of the years it has been in operation, and the hundreds of school children and earnest young men who have profited by the knowledge acquired as patrons of the Library, have borne willing testimony in their lives and the work they are doing that, without the Library they would have made much slower progress and perhaps have failed to realize the ambitions they have had to become more useful and better citizens.

Likewise it is unnecessary to recount the history of the financial struggles of the board of trustees to maintain the institution with inadequate funds, which by vote of the people it was solemnly agreed should be done by taxation. This agreement has been kept only in part, and jointly by the city council and the school board from year to year. This year the school board has reached the limit of its tax-raising resources and can provide no funds and the city council has done no more than appropriate its pro rata share.

While The Courier still holds that the only proper solution of the question is for the city council to perform its duty by acknowledging the obligation the municipality has to the Library, and keep the faith of the people who voted to sustain it out of taxation, by making an appropriation out of the contingent fund to meet the needs for the current year as that body has proper and lawful authority so to do—it is realized that there is scant hope of expecting this to be done.

The need of the hour, therefore is for action by all good citizens and those who are concerned in having Connellsville give the very best education to its sons and daughters that our facilities can provide. Action that will take the form of liberal subscriptions to a fund to carry the Library through the year, enable the trustees to conserve the property by making long delayed repairs, pay the employes living salaries, add up to date books upon various subjects in which its patrons have an interest and thus to serve children and young men and women in their daily work and thereby uphold the good name and credit of the city of Connellsville.

A COMMENDABLE [illegible]

[illegible] ing the labor of American soldiers [illegible] the World War. The [illegible] posed from committee [illegible] enacted into a law at the last session of Congress, but there was so unanimous approval of the proposal both in and out of Congress that by common consent the whole country made the first anniversary of the signing of the armistice a holiday.

Keeping up the reputation of the Bishop Post as a live wire organization through whose efforts distinctive and worthwhile things have been accomplished both at the home station and in the state and national conventions, the [illegible] at the Cleveland convention have brought the Armistice Day proposal before that body so effectively that it was voted unanimously to recommend to Congress the completion of the step taken at the last session in making the [illegible] a national holiday.

Credit for the success of the movement is freely given the Milton Bishop Post and its representatives on the floor of the convention. In this the convention made no mistake. The local post may regard this recognition as a deserving compliment to the whole organization.

MONONGAHELA BAPTISTS OPEN 88TH CONVENTION

Eighty-Four Ministers Registered at Beginning of Convention.

COMMITTEES MAKE REPORT

Speakers of the Day at Annual Gathering at Mount Pleasant Include Rev. F. M. Potent, New York, and Dr. Leroy Stephens of Lewisburg.

Special to The Courier.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Sept. 30.—The 88th annual session of the Monongahela Baptist Association met at the First Baptist church [illegible] morning. Eighty-four pastors and delegates were registered. The session began at [illegible] o'clock [illegible] morning with devotions by Rev. J. Earle Edwards of Connellsville. After the report of the committee on program, Rev. J. [illegible] of the local church delivered the address of welcome. Then was the reading of the church letter from the First Baptist church of Mount Pleasant. The Connellsville Baptist church made application for admission into the association and was accepted.

Rev. R. H. [illegible] of Smithfield preached the [illegible] sermon. At noon 50 of the delegates [illegible] the Mount Pleasant Institute.

At the afternoon session Rev. [illegible] Edwards conducted the devotions. Reports were heard from committees. Addresses were delivered [illegible] afternoon by Rev. F. M. Potent of New York City, Rev. [illegible] Madden [illegible] and Dr. Leroy Stephens of Lewisburg. Rev. W. [illegible] Brown [illegible] gave [illegible] of the committee on social service.

Rev. Edwards of Connellsville took up the minute [illegible].

At the evening session Rev. [illegible] Edwards conducted devotions. Miss Naomi Seibert, vocal teacher at the Institute, sang. Dr. W. H. Berris of Philadelphia and Rev. W. C. [illegible] of Philadelphia were the speakers.

Meagher-Murtha.

Miss Irene Meagher and Frank P. Murtha were married at 8 o'clock yesterday morning at St. Joseph's church by Rev. John Hackett. The attendants were Henry Meagher and [illegible] of Southwest. A wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home [illegible] the members of the two families. [illegible] and Mrs. Murtha left on an eastern trip and after their return will be at home at Pleasant Unity.

SULPHUR CLEARS UP ROUGH OR RED SKIN

Face, Neck and Arms Easily Made Smooth, Says Specialist.

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm.

It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly [illegible] and heal eruptions such as rash pimples [illegible] in a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.—Adv.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"MAN AND HIS WOMAN," with Herbert Rawlinson the [illegible] of the screen, is today's feature attraction. The picture does more than merely entertain. It also [illegible] uplifts. In the [illegible] it is tremendously noble and gripping. The story depicts the weakness of a strong man who [illegible] down to [illegible] power of one woman, degradation and [illegible] other woman's purity. A man [illegible] by his woman [illegible] of "Man and His Woman," [illegible] life was broken by one woman [illegible] re-made by another. One woman's goodness built up what the other's [illegible] destroyed.

J. Stuart Blackton chose his cast with care. Herbert Rawlinson has never been seen to better advantage, while May McAvoy thrills with the sincerity and tensity of her acting. Eulalie Jensen, Warren Chandler, Charles Kent and Louis Dean are perfect types for their respective roles.

COACH RUPP ENTHUSED BY OUTLOOK FOR GOOD SEASON IN FOOTBALL

Believes He Has Material to Develop Into Championship Mould.

MORE MEN OUT NEXT WEEK

Hopes of adherents to the high school football team have taken a rise since learning that Coach J. Paul Rupp is inclined to be rather enthused over the prospects of a successful season. The coach, who took active charge on Monday, has jumped into the work energetically and while he had only a single week to whip a team into shape to meet Johnstown, he has taken advantage of every moment.

If Connellsville successfully meets Johnstown on Saturday at the Flood City, the season ahead is an assured success. The locals open the season there.

One thing fans may build upon, regardless of the outcome of Saturday's game, is that the lineup which goes to against the Johnstown team will hardly be the same which will face Uehody high here the following week. Some new men are expected to be out next week, which will make the competition for positions even more interesting.

Coach Rupp is kept busy drilling both line and backfield. The line showed lack of defensive work in Saturday's game and the backfield could not get anywhere on the offense. Both of these defects are being overcome in the daily workouts.

Some of the "dare-ups" who came out at the opening of the season bubbling over with enthusiasm and who looked as though there were possibilities of development, have dropped off, and the candidates now reporting at Fayette Field every night are those who will stick the remainder of the year.

* * * *

Tonight will be the last scrimmage for the high school gridders. Tomorrow evening Coach Rupp will probably put the men through a stiff signal drill and get them to bed early for the trip to Johnstown on Saturday.

* * * *

Connellsville didn't play Johnstown last year. Two years ago the Flood City team won. A victory this year would help even things up.

* * * *

We predict that by the time the Cokers are ready to go to Greensburg, just about one month from now, the Westmoreland countyseaters will not look nearly so formidable as in past years. The word "Greensburg" has always seemingly had a demoralizing effect on Connellsville players in recent games.

[illegible] FORGING AHEAD IN [illegible]RACE IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

The Cleveland Indians are entrenching themselves in their first place position in the American league. Yesterday marked their fourth straight victory over the Browns, giving them a margin of one and one-half games over the wrecked Whitesox team. The Whitesox are loafing at present.

Although the Yankees won two yesterday, the team was eliminated from any possibility of taking first place by the Indians' victory. Babe Ruth poled out his 54th home run in the first game of a double-header with the Athletics, the ball going over the right field wall.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-Four Hours.

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if two bottles of Allenrhu, the sure conquerer of rheumatism, does not stop all agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenrhu has been tried and tested for years and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenrhu, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenrhu decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed the Connellsville Drug Co. and C. Roy Hetzel to guarantee it in every instance.

CHAPTER I.

The Night of the Beacons.

It is strange to me, Jock Calder of West Inch, to feel that though now, in the very center of the nineteenth century, I am but five-and-fifty years of age, and though it is only once a week, perhaps, that my wife can pluck out a little gray bristle from over my ear, yet I have lived in a time when the thoughts and the ways of men were as different as though it were another planet from this. For when I walk in my fields I can see, down Berwick way, the little tufts of white smoke which tell me of this strange, new, hundred-legged beast with coals for food and a thousand men in its belly, forever crawling over the border. On a shiny day I can see the glint of the brass work as it takes the curve near Corriemuir. And then, as I look out to sea, there is the same beast again, or a dozen of them, maybe, leaving a trail of black in the air and of white in the water, and swimming in the face of the wind as easily as a salmon up the Tweed. Such a sight as that would have struck my good old father speechless with wrath as well as surprise, for he was so stricken with the fear of offending the Creator that he was chary of contradicting Nature, and always held the new thing to be nearly akin to the blasphemous. As long as God made the horse, and a man, down Birmingham way, the engine, my good old dad would have stuck by the saddle and the spurs.

When he died we had been fighting with scarce a break, save for two short years, for very nearly a quarter of a century. Babies who were born in the war grew to be bearded men with babies of their own, and still the war continued. Those who had served and fought in their stalwart prime grew stiff and bent, and yet the ships and the armies were struggling. During that long time we fought the Dutch, we fought the Danes, we fought the Spanish, we fought the Turks, we fought the Americans, we fought the Montevideans, until it seemed that in this universal struggle no race was too near of kin or too far away to be drawn into the quarrel. But most of it was the French whom we fought, and the man whom of all others we loathed and feared and admired was the great captain who ruled them.

It was very well to draw pictures of him, and sing songs about him, and make as though he were an impostor, but I can tell you that the fear of that man hung like a black shadow over Europe, and that there was a time when the glint of a fire at night upon the coast would set every woman on her knees and every man gripping for his musket. He had always won. That was the terror of it. The fates seemed to be behind him. And now we know that he lay upon the northern coast with a hundred and fifty thousand veterans, and the boats for their passage. But it is an old story how a third of the grown folk of our country took up arms, and how our little one-eyed, one-armed man crushed their fleet. There was still to be a land of free thinking and free speaking in Europe.

There was a great beacon ready on the hill by Tweedmouth, built up of logs and tar barrels, and I can well remember how night after night I strained my eyes to see if it were ablaze. I was only eight at the time, but it is an age when one takes a grief to heart, and I felt as though the fate of the country hung in some fashion upon me and my vigilance. And then one night as I looked I suddenly saw a little flicker on the beacon hill—a single red tongue of flame in the darkness. And then the flame shot higher, and I saw the red, quivering line upon the water beyond, and I dashed into the kitchen, screeching to my father that the French had crossed and the Tweedmouth light was aflame. I can see him now as he knocked his pipe out at the side of the fire, and looked at me from over the top of his horn spectacles.

"Are you sure, Jock?" says he.

"Sure as death," I gasped.

He reached out his hand for the Bible upon the table and opened it upon his knee as though he meant to read to us, but he shut it again in silence and hurried out. We went down to the gate which opens out upon the highway. From there we could see the red light of the big beacon, and the glimmer of a smaller one to the north of us at Ayton. The old road had more folk on it than ever passed along it at night before, for many of the yeomen up our way had enrolled themselves and were riding now as fast as hoof could carry them for the muster. Some had a stirrup cup or two before parting, and I cannot forget one who tore past on a huge white horse, brandishing a great rusty sword in the moonlight. They shouted to us, as they passed, that the North Berwick law-fire was blazing, and that it was thought that the alarm had come from Edinburgh castle. There were a few who galloped the other way, couriers for Edinburgh and the laird's son and Master Clayton, the deputy sheriff, and such like.

But early in the morning we had our minds set at ease. It was gray and cold, and my mother had gone up to the house to make a pot of tea for us, when there came a gig down the road with Doctor Horscroft of Ayton in it and his son Jim. The collar of the doctor's coat came over his ears, and he looked in a deadly black humor, for Jim, who was but fifteen years of age, had trooped off to Berwick at the first alarm with his father's new fowling piece. All night his dad had chased him, and now there he was, a prisoner, with the barrel of the stolen gun sticking out from behind the seat. He looked as sulky as his father, with his hands thrust into his side pockets, his brows drawn down, and his lower lip thrust out.

"It's all a lie," shouted the doctor, as he passed. "There has been no landing, and all the fools in Scotland have been gadding about the roads for nothing." His son Jim snarled something up at him on this, and his father struck him a blow with his clenched fist on the side of the head, which sent the boy's chin forward upon his breast as though he had been stunned.

Now all this has little enough to do with what I took my pen up to tell about; but when a man has a good memory and little skill he cannot draw one thought from his mind without a dozen others trailing out behind it. And yet, now that I come to think of it, this had something to do with it after all; for Jim Horscroft had so deadly a quarrel with his father that he was packed off to Birtwhistle's Berwick academy; and as my father had long wished me to go there he took advantage of this chance to send me also.

There was from the first a great friendship between Jim Horscroft, the doctor's son, and me. He was cock boy of the school from the day he came, for within the hour he had thrown Barton, who had been cock before him, right through the big blackboard in the classroom. Jim always ran to muscle and bone, and even then he was square and tall, short of speech and long of arm, much given to lounging with his broad back against walls, and his hands deep in his breeches pockets. I can even recall that he had a trick of keeping a straw in the corner of his mouth, just where he used afterward to hold his pipe. Jim was always the same, for good and for bad, since first I knew him.

Heavens! How we all looked up to him! We were but young savages, and had a savage's respect for power. What tales we used to whisper about his strength; how he put his fist through the oak panel of the gameroom door. How when Long Merridew was carrying the ball, he caught up Merridew, ball and all, and ran swiftly past every opponent to the goal. It did not seem fit to us that such a one as he should trouble his head about spondees and dactyls, or care to know who signed the Magna Charta. When he said in open class that King Alfred was the man, we little boys all felt that very likely it was so, and that perhaps Jim knew more about it than the man who wrote the book.

For two years we were close friends, for all the gap that the years had made between us, and, though in passion or in want of thought he did many a thing that galled me, yet I loved him like a brother, and wept as much as would have filled an ink bottle when at last, after two years, he went off to Edinburgh to study his father's profession. Five years after that did I bide at Birtwhistle's, and when I left I had become cock myself, for I was as wiry and as tough as whalebone, though I never ran to weight and sinew, like my great predecessor. It was in jubilee year that I left Birtwhistle's, and then for three years I stayed at home, learning the ways of the cattle; but still the ships and the armies were wrestling, and still the great shadow of Bonaparte lay across the country.

How could I guess that I, too, should have a hand in lifting that shadow forever from our people?

CHAPTER II.

Cousin Edie of Eyemouth.

Some years before, when I was still but a lad, there had come over to us upon a five weeks' visit the only daughter of my father's brother. Willie Calder had settled at Eyemouth as a maker of fishing nets, and he had made more out of twine than ever we were like to do out of the whin bushes and sand links of West Inch. So his daughter, Edie Calder, came over with a braw red frock and a five-shilling bonnet and a kist full of things that brought my dear mother's eyes out like a partan's.

I took no great stock of girls at that time, for it was hard for me to see what they had been made for. There were none of us at Birtwhistle's that thought very much of them; but the smallest laddies seemed to have the most sense, for, after they began to grow bigger they were not so sure about it. We little ones were all of one mind that a creature that couldn't fight and was carrying tales, and couldn't so much as shy a stone without flapping its arm like a rag in the wind was no use for anything.

THIS IS FIRE PREVENTION WEEK IN KEYSTONE STATE

Special to The Courier.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 29. This is forest protection week. In his recent proclamation designating the period between September 26 and October 2 as the time for all citizens of the state to take action for the prevention and suppression of forest fires, Governor Sproul declared "it is our duty to protect and restore to production the million of acres now barren because of forest fires."

Gifford Pinchot, the state's chief forester, estimates the annual damage to Pennsylvania's forests from forest fires at $10,000,000. Today he issued the following statement on "why we must fight fire."

"It is not what forest fires consume that make them such a terrible curse to the state, because there is very little large timber left to burn. It is what the fire keeps from growing that measures the damage.

"The state is building fire observation towers, extending its fire-fighting organization, and its system of fire patrol just as rapidly as the appropriations to the Department of Forestry will permit. But the department has had the meagre sum of four and one-half mills per acre with which to fight fire. It should have at least that many cents per acre, to make and keep Pennsylvania's forests safe against fire.

"The sweep of a fire over a forest means the killing off of the young growth and the consequent holding back from production of [illegible].

"Pennsylvania's forests would be restored without resorting to [illegible] if the fires could be stopped.

"Putting an end to [illegible] is the duty of the commonwealth not alone on the [illegible] but upon all forest land.

BIG CROP OF HAY FEVER JOKES

But Kentucky Man Says People Who Belong to Hay Fever Colony Are Kidding Themselves.

Wouldn't Be Any Hay Fever If Simple Home Remedy Was Given a Chance.

"You there's a real NINETY NINE per cent effective remedy for hay or rose fever," [illegible] a druggist in a prosperous Kentucky city.

"But I don't expect anyone to believe me, because the treatment is so easy and the cost not worth mentioning.

"The annual crop of Hay Fever jokes would be mighty scarce if people would get three quarters of an ounce of Mentholized Arnica, and by just adding water that has been boiled, make a pint of liquid that will prove a real help to all who suffer.

"Many of my Hay Fever friends tell me that by starting to gargle and snuff or spray the nostrils a few times a day the expected severe attack often fails to appear, and in other cases it does show up, a very mild attack does not annoy.

"It's the same way with Rose Fever.

"The Better Class of Pharmacists who dispense Mentholized Arnica say that it will greatly modify any attack, even when taken three or four days after hostilities begin."

Go to a real live druggist when you get ready to make a pint, for up to the present time there has been little demand for this friendly medicine.

Mentholized Arnica is new in this market. It is possible that your druggist has not supplied himself, but he can get it for you from his jobber, who has a large supply.

FAST GROWING, PALE, THIN, CHILDREN NEED A GOOD TONIC IN THE WINTER

Prevents Sickness and Fortifies Them For Cold Wet Days.

MAKES HEALTHY ROBUST KIDDIES

A child studies better at school; sleeps better and eats and relishes real food more if given a good health building tonic at this season of the year. Their little lungs can be strengthened and fortified against coughs, colds and dangerous winter diseases. Their blood can be enriched, roses brought back into their cheeks, their digestion can be improved to take care of the heavy, heat-making foods like oat meal, meats, cereals, hot cakes, etc., which all careful mothers feed children in winter to keep their little bodies warm and fat. Children need plenty of real food, also a laxative now and then. They need a good tonic at this season and you can get a more modern, more pleasant tasting tonic that will do the work much better than the nasty, bitter, fishy tasting tonic grandma used to give to her little boys and girls.

Druggists and experts assert that Earle's Hypo-Cod is a splendid nutritive tonic. Children love its pleasant taste and the name Earle Chemical Company on the bottle is mother's assurance of finest quality in medicine. Thousands of mothers use it. Read what one mother says about it in the article on the right. Then get the children a bottle or better still let the whole family take Earle's Hypo-Cod a while. It builds you up quickly.

THIS MOTHER SAYS IT'S FINE TONIC FOR LITTLE CHILDREN

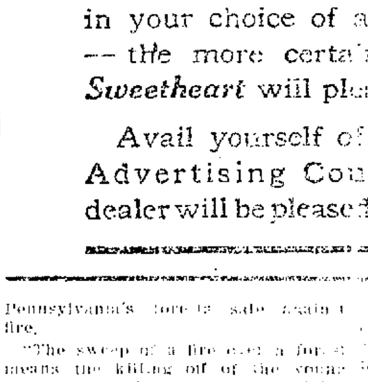

Her Little Boy Says He's "Mothers Hypo-Cod Baby."

NEIGHBORS SAY BOY LOOKS FINE

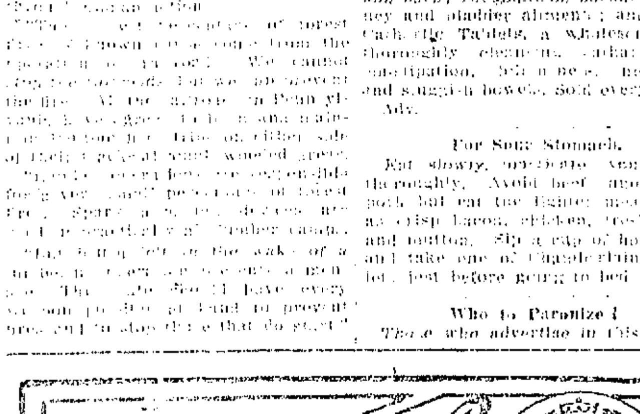

"My little boy aged six years was in a terribly weak and rundown condition following scarlet fever and measles. He couldn't stand up without staggering from weakness. The doctor said his weak condition was due to adenoids and tonsils and operation would be necessary, but I felt he couldn't stand an operation he was so weak and poorly looking so I sent down to the drug store and bought a bottle of Earle's Hypo-Cod and I wish you could just see that husky little rascal play and come around now. He picked right up and by the time I had given him three bottles according to directions he needed no operation and says he's 'Mother's Hypo-Cod Baby.'

"We think Hypo-Cod is wonderful in our house and I even give it to my oldest children. My son aged 2 was suffering from a breakdown in health and I bought him a bottle and sent it to him and I can furnish a dozen neighbors who will tell you that my little boy was just a piece of skin and bones when I started giving him Hypo-Cod and just look at him now," declared Catherine Dewees, 101 East 2nd St., [illegible] Pa.

It isn't a good idea to give a child much medicine. A simple laxative or some good tonic is fine however and keeps the child strong as it grows. Modern food doesn't seem to have enough strength building elements in it and unless the child's appetite is very good they can't eat enough real substantial food. A few doses of Hypo-Cod stimulates appetite, helps digestion, enriches the blood and quickly tones the system and it is no need to take children love it. Ask your druggist. Thousands of mothers use and praise Earle's Hypo-Cod. You'll be delighted the way it builds up the little folks. Let the whole family take it just at this season. It's good for them.

Earle's Hypo-Cod is sold by all good druggists.

Exquisite—that's the way to describe them. Exquisitely pure—exquisitely tasty—exquisitely packed.

LIGHTNING BOLT DESTROYS BARN AT SMITHFIELD

Burning of Structure of George Miller Farm Follows That of Brother-in-Law.

Special to The Courier.

SMITHFIELD, Sept. 30.—George Miller's barn that was struck by lightning Monday evening and burned causing a loss to Mr. Miller of approximately $2,000, was built about 30 years ago, Colonel Forsythe, a noted barn builder, being the contractor. In or about the same time he built a barn of similar construction for John Conn, a brother-in-law. Six weeks ago the Conn barn was struck by lightning and burned, causing about the same loss that Miller sustained.

Mrs. W. M. V. Mayfield and son, Caleb, are visiting relatives at Morgantown, W. Va.

Mrs. Mary J. Snyder, who has been visiting relatives here for the past two months, will leave over the Pennsylvania railroad Sunday morning for her home at Wilkes-Barre.

Mrs. Howard Phillips of Uniontown is visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry Dils at Bowwood for a few days.

J. A. Leech and J. G. Jones are opening the Sewickley vein of coal on the Baker farm near Cheat Haven.

Mrs. Emma Deffenbaugh and son, E. E. Deffenbaugh, were in the borough Tuesday evening and acknowledged their deed to the Bell Coal company for a piece of coal in Nicholson township.

Protect Your Child—and Others. The beginning of school brings coughs and colds to many children. At the first sign of a cold it is well to give a child a dose of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, that safe, reliable cough medicine. Mrs. J. B. Plugmers, 246 Autumn St., Passaic, N. J., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar certainly is the best cough and cold remedy I ever tried for my little boy." Children like it. Good for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, hay fever and asthma. Many housewives will order mayonnaise at the restaurant but not make it at home. Why?

PROBABLY because many still have the idea that mayonnaise is lots of trouble to prepare.

Or that they cannot make good mayonnaise—or that it won't "keep."

None of these reasons keeps the woman who knows Mazola from making her own mayonnaise every week.

Mazola being an absolutely pure vegetable oil, blends the ingredients perfectly and imparts its own delicate flavor to the dressing—which will keep for weeks without separating.

Once you try Mazola you will prefer it to olive oil. It not only equals the finest imported olive oil, but costs about half the price.

Mazola is served by leading hotels, clubs and dining cars throughout America.

MAYONNAISE

2 Eggs, Yolks only; 1 Pint of Mazola; 1 teaspoon of Mustard; 1 dash of Cayenne or White Pepper or ½ teaspoon Paprika; 1 teaspoon of Salt; 2 tablespoons each of Lemon Juice and Vinegar or 4 tablespoons of Vinegar (any flavored vinegar may be used)

Have all ingredients and mixing utensils cold. Mix dry ingredients. Add egg yolks and when well mixed, add ½ teaspoonful of vinegar. Add Mazola drop by drop until the mixture begins to thicken, beating slowly. As soon as the mixture thickens, add the remainder of the vinegar a little at a time. Now beat in the remainder of the Mazola gradually until all is used. The Mayonnaise should be thick enough to hold its shape. Put in a glass jar and cover close. Place in the ice box to be used when needed. It will keep for weeks. Do not stir it when you open it; take out as much as you need with a tablespoon and close the jar.

FAILURE OF SOUTHERN WHITE WOMEN TO REGISTER THREATENS TO LET NEGROES INTO POWER

Enfranchisement of women has created for the people of the Southern states a situation that, because of failure of white women to register for the November election, threatens to result in the balance of power in places falling into the hands of the negroes. Duval county, Fla., in which is located Jacksonville, where a number of Connellsville persons spend their winters, is numbered among the sections so menaced.

"Are the white men and white women of Duval county going to permit the negro washerwomen and cooks to wield the balance of power in the county??" asks a citizen of the city in a letter to the Florida Metropolis, published at Jacksonville. Up to the middle of September 895 negro women had registered as compared with 833 white women.

"We are face to face with the fact that more negro women have registered than white women. There must be a reason for this," he said.

"These negro women expect to vote, or they would not register. There is a guiding mind behind them somewhere. They are well organized. I understand that the funeral societies, sick benefit societies, etc., have rules that the members cannot attend unless they produce their registration certificates. We all know that the negro women feel that their future happiness, welfare and well-being depends upon their attendance at these meetings. Therefore, with these organizations, and the guiding mind behind them, we may expect a still larger negro registration. I fear that the objects and purpose of this negro registration is the election of Republicans to the council or to some county offices.

"When the white men and white women of Jacksonville realize the true situation, I believe there will be no trouble in interesting the white women in registering.

"A large number of men were opposed to woman suffrage, and I am informed that some of them now object to their women-folk participating in elections. The objections of these men will be swept away when they realize that unless their women-folk do register and participate in elections, the washer-women and cooks may hold the balance of power.

"This is a white man's country and government; his by right of conquest, by right of might, by right of the blood he has spilt, and by right of the brain and energy contributed to its building and development, and when the white women realize the danger, interest will be sufficient, and they will qualify to do their full duty, and to exercise citizenship's highest privilege."

Display advertising is carried in the newspapers, calling on the white people to register in order to hold the balance against the negroes. At Jacksonville a White Republican club has been formed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Kenney are among the Connellsville persons who spent last winter at Jacksonville and they have been watching with interest the trend of affairs in the Florida city.

BEAR OIL

For Your Hair

You never saw a bald Indian—They don't use perfumed lotions, because they used bear oil, with other potent ingredients from the fields, woods and forests of Nature. A reliable formula is KOTALKO, Indians' elixir for hair and scalp. Ask for it in stopping FALLING HAIR and aiding NEW GROWTH in many cases when all else failed. Guarantee. $300 money-refund. For men, women, children. Watch the advertisements. Positively wonderful. Buy KOTALKO at the drug stores; or send 10 cents for proof box and guarantee, to John Hart Brittain, Sta. F, New York.
